

QUEEN ANNE

When Queen Anne enters service in 2024, she will become the 249th ship to sail under the Cunard flag. It will be the first time since 1999 that Cunard will have four ships at sea.

Her hull is based on the Pinnacle class of vessels designed by the Italian shipbuilder Fincantieri. These shipyards have already built similar ships for Cunard's sister line Holland America.

Vital Statistics.

Length	322.5 metres
Size	113,000 gross tons
Height	64 metres above the water
Width	35.6 metres
Capacity	3,000 guests
Crew	1,225
Draft	8.12 metres
Maximum speed	22 knots or 40.7 km/h

Wellness Studio

Queens Grill Suite

Queens Room

Queen Anne features.

Cunard's newest ship will comprise 14 decks and feature a combination of Cunard brand-standard amenities and offer more choice in dining and entertainment experiences.

Her accommodation will provide guests with some of the finest spaces at sea, including Cunard's renowned Grills Suites, where sumptuous accommodation in a wide range of suites matched to two of the ship's finest restaurants, the Queens Grill and the Princess Grill. These suites range from approximately 301 sq. ft up to 1440 sq. ft.

A total of six standards of accommodation will be available: Britannia Inside; Britannia Oceanview; Britannia Balcony; Britannia Club Balcony; Princess Grill Suites, and Queens Grill Suites. Due to guest demand, the number of Britannia Club staterooms on Queen Anne has increased by more than 200% versus other ships in the fleet. They're being designed by Paris-based Sybille de Margerie, whose impressive portfolio includes the Mandarin Paris and Atlantis, The Royal Residences in Dubai.

The centre piece of the ship will be the spectacular Grand Lobby spanning three decks. The design will provide a show-stopping entrance, full of energy and light. Marking the transition from past to present, the area will house a contemporary sculpted mural that will change throughout the day by the lighting effect integrated within, celebrating ocean travel.

Queen Anne guests will be able to enjoy a host of other public rooms and spaces, all designed with careful attention to detail, and spanning the unique history and heritage of Cunard throughout the last 182 years.

Cunard's signature venue, the Queens Room, has a new striking design for Queen Anne. This magnificent room will play host to a variety of activities from Afternoon Tea to Gala Evenings, classical recitals, and ballroom dancing.

There's also the 835-seat Royal Court Theatre, casino, library, and art gallery on board. Queen Anne's spa offering – Mareel Wellness & Beauty – will feature the widest selection of fitness, beauty, thermal, and spa facilities so far seen on a Cunard vessel. There will also be an exclusive array of treatment rooms and a private spa suite, alongside a brand-new top-deck wellness studio.

There will also be a wealth of pastime choices at The Pavilion, a clever space that will boast a specially designed glass dome roof that can retract in warmer climes. As well as a swimming pool, the space will hold both a central stage and a large LED screen for open-air theatre, cinema screenings, live music and more.

Britannia Restaurant

Dining on board Queen Anne.

Queen Anne debuts some exciting new dining options in addition to the classic, much-loved restaurants. There will be 15 venues, from laid-back light bites and indulgent treats, to the ultimate in fine dining. Guests will be able to dine as they wish, with an array of flavours and cuisines to choose from across the ship, throughout the entire day.

As with all Cunard ships, Queen Anne will offer dedicated restaurants corresponding to her four accommodation categories. Each of these will boast a menu that showcases the finest ingredients from all over the world.

Bars and Lounges.

Queen Anne's selection of bars and alternative dining options take design and opulence to new levels and include the breath-taking views afforded by the Commodore Club (Deck 12, Forward) to the relaxed vibe of the Carinthia Lounge (Deck 3, Midships) and the refined ambience of the Chart Room (Deck 2, Midships).

There will also be:

- ◆ The Panorama Pool Club. With impressive sea views and a prime position at the aft of the ship, this will be a vibrant destination in which to soak up the sunshine and make the most of luxurious days on board Queen Anne.
- ◆ Sky Bar and Observation Deck. Located at the forward of the ship on deck 14, this day-round space will feature a sit-up bar and deck games, including a full-sized paddle tennis court, putting green and driving range.
- ◆ Cabana. A laid-back leisure bar featuring a selection of vibrant, rum-based cocktails (and other favourites).

Fun Facts.

- ◆ On 9 March 2022, Inger Klein Thorhaug was named the first Captain of Queen Anne. She is Cunard's first female Captain. Having started her career in 1997 as Second Officer onboard Cunard's Vistafjord, Inger celebrated 25 years of service this year, in 2022. Meet Captain Thorhaug and the rest of the team behind Queen Anne's incredible journey, from design through to sailing - <https://youtu.be/GH19JQUlwMU>
- ◆ The name 'Queen Anne' celebrates Cunard's rich heritage, royal history and refined status. The Cunard team, alongside British historian, author and television presenter, Kate Williams, explored multiple naming options and was inspired by Queen Anne's reign. Cunard now has four ships celebrating the names of the four Queens Regnant over the last millennium.

Panorama Pool Club

